The extension LatexRenderer shows math formulas by rendering LaTeX markup as images on a Windows server.

Contents

1 Usage / features .......................................................... 1
2 Technical information .................................................... 1
   2.1 Requirements .......................................................... 1
3 More info ........................................................................... 2
4 Demo ............................................................................. 2

Usage / features

This extension provides the following functionality:

- add a formula in edit mode like
- use the VisualEditor Math menu item to insert complex formulas
- the output of the formula in view mode is a png image

Technical information

This extension corresponds to the Math extension that is used to render LaTeX formulas on a Linux server.

Requirements

This extension requires Apache Tomcat Server.
More info

- Installation instructions

Demo

You can try to insert math formulas in our BlueSpice Demo.