The extension LatexRenderer shows math formulas by rendering LaTeX markup as images on a Windows server.

Contents

1 Usage / features ................................................................. 1
2 Technical information ...................................................... 1
   2.1 Requirements ........................................................... 1
3 More info .......................................................................... 2
4 Demo ............................................................................... 2

---

Usage / features

This extension provides the following functionality:

- add a formula in edit mode like
- use the VisualEditor Math menu item to insert complex formulas
- the output of the formula in view mode is a png image

---

Technical information

This extension corresponds to the Math extension that is used to render LaTeX formulas on a Linux server.

---

Requirements

This extension requires Apache Tomcat Server.
More info

- Installation instructions

Demo

You can try to insert math formulas in our BlueSpice Demo.