Viewing notifications

To access the notifications page, click on your profile picture (1) and then click on Notifications in the Personal Tools (2). A red indicator is displayed if there are new notifications waiting.

The notifications page shows all incoming notifications.

Notification settings

Note:

- You are not notified about your own edits.
- No notifications are generated for page changes marked as "minor change".

The screenshot shows the 'Save changes' dialog box. It includes a 'Summary:' section with a text area to 'Describe what you changed'. At the bottom, there are two checkboxes: 'This is a minor edit' (checked) and 'Watch this page' (unchecked). Buttons for 'X', 'Save your changes', and 'Save changes' are visible at the top.

The following settings are available:

- E-Mail options:
 - Send me: Frequency of notifications (none, immediately, daily, weekly)
 - Send to: If you enter or change the e-mail address here, it will be changed for the entire wiki (i.e., under your profile data).
