The revision slider is collapsed by default on the version comparison page. It can be expanded by clicking Browse history interactively.

The screenshot illustrates the RevisionSlider extension in a MediaWiki diff view. At the top, a button labeled "Browse history interactively" with a right-pointing arrow is shown. Below it, a collapsed revision slider is visible, featuring a horizontal timeline with a blue dot indicating the current position and a question mark icon. The diff view below shows two versions of a page. The left version is from 08:51 on 23 December 2021, edited by Margit.link-rodrigue. The right version is the latest, from 12:44 on 12 January 2022, also edited by Margit.link-rodrigue. The diff highlights changes in the wikitext, specifically in the 'docu' field of a table. The interface includes tabs for "Visual" and "Wikitext" views.
